Subject: Microsoft Settlement

I believe the present settlement is too lax and lenient. It would not stop Microsoft from abusing its monopoly powers. I don't necessarily agree with the original remedy of breaking up the company, but I believe the present settlement amounts to nothing but a slap on the wrist. I think the settlement proposed by the nine dissident states would be far more effective. By forcing Microsoft to make Office available for other platforms, it would promote competition in the OS space, since most of corporate America has standardized on Office.

Thank you.

Sincerely,
Brian Yen-Shan Wang
